

MR. CARLISLE'S POLICY

Fully Stated in Regard to the Purchase of Silver.

He Believes That the Government Should Pursue the Same Policy as in Buying Other Commodities.

The silver purchase policy of Secretary Carlisle was set forth in a letter which was yesterday addressed to the Speaker of the House and which is as follows:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the following resolution passed by the House of Representatives on September 27, 1892:

"Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be requested to inform the House why silver bullion was not purchased in the month of July and August, 1892, in full amount provided in the act of July 14, 1890."

I respectfully submit the following reply: On August 13, 1892, the date of the act of July 14, 1890, went into effect, the equivalent of the London price for silver 100 fine in the month of July and August, 1892, was $1.10 per ounce.

RAISING REINDEER.

The Government Stock Farms Established in Alaska.

The reindeer enterprise in Alaska, or the effort to introduce the raising of these animals for the benefit of the inhabitants of that part of the United States, is in a very promising condition. Capt. M. A. Healy, of the revenue steamer Bear, who spent much time in Alaska, and whose duty is to inspect the management of the reindeer station at Port Clarence, as well as the purchase of animals in Siberia, has submitted an interesting report to the Treasury Department. He says:

Congress by making an appropriation during its last session for the introduction of domesticated reindeer of Siberia into the Territory of Alaska by the act of Congress, authorized the approval of the project. The Interior Department has also shown deep interest in the matter, and has appointed a committee to investigate the matter.

The experience of two years has demonstrated that the reindeer is a valuable animal in Alaska. It is found in great numbers in the interior of the Territory, and is well adapted to the climate and conditions of the country.

THE EVENING STAR.

IVES GOES AHEAD.

He Leaves Roberts.

The billiard match between Ives and Roberts was continued yesterday afternoon and last evening in New York. Roberts started the game from the position where he had won the first set, 3-0, and Ives followed, but failed to score.

Both players seemed in poor form, and the runs in the earlier part of the game were small.

Roberts made a century run for the first time in the twenty-sixth inning, after a brilliant exhibition of hazards, piling up 115 points. In the thirty-seventh inning he made another century run, making his 80 and left the ball in the pocket for the evening. Ives had only scored 44.

The fourth inning in the evening Roberts played well, but Ives followed and piled up his run by two and three runs. He then brought him 154 points. He was then 54 points ahead of the American on the evening's game.

The balls were left in a good position for Ives, who in seven innings had scored on the lower rail. Then he began a long, tedious run around the table, nursing the balls carefully. He made a century run, making his 80 and left the ball in the pocket for the evening. Ives had only scored 44.
